

Collecting along Lake Huron's
Saginaw Bay
March 2012

John Copp
Mark Kaiser
Joe Powers

Saginaw Bay Shoreline Collecting

— March 9, 2012

— March 20, 2012

We spent two leisurely afternoons driving the back roads. Collecting along shore was so-so; Wallace Quarry good.

West side of the Bay, 9Mar12

We started at the mouth of the Saginaw River, going to public access sites north to Au Gres. The collecting was sparse at best. The boat launch at the mouth of the Saginaw River had an interesting mix of rocks.

Using my imagination, this looks like a trilobite!?

East side of the Bay, 20Mar12

Shoreline rocks

We worked our way NE along the bay from Essexville to Bayport. At Bayport, we stopped at the Wallace Quarry.

After asking at the quarry office, we collected at the piles at the quarry entrance.

